

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

The fundamental motivation of doing this research was the researcher's concern about the low level of English proficiency in Indonesia. Meanwhile, government companies now are setting the bar higher by recruiting staffs who can speak English on daily basis, to compete with multi-national corporates. We can imagine in five years, the standard qualification of an employee will include TOEIC certificate with minimum score.

According to the researcher's goal and purpose, this research were aimed to develop a website that can create impacts for the students in English conversation skills. Referring to the research goal and purpose, the researcher created conclusions.

The results of students' need analysis for a learning media in English conversation were, the students needed an eye-catching learning media that includes learning videos, example texts and practice videos. It would be even better if the video could be slowed down, so that the students can learn how to pronounce each words. It will boost their confidence especially in conversing with other people.

The results of the website development were aligned with the students' needs. CEM itself included the learning video as an example for the students to practice with the alternative response video, also the vocabulary and grammar section could enrich their knowledge about certain expressions. Moreover, CEM can be accessed anywhere at any time. It would also be very convenient and useful for independent learning.

B. Suggestion

This research's purpose was to develop a new website as a learning resource that can create positive outcomes and changes in conversation skills. Nothing is perfect, so is this research. It has many flaws and weaknesses that the researcher would not want others to repeat by giving some following suggestions:

1. For Students

CEM can be used with or without the teacher's guidance, so students are free to use it any time they please. Students should also be more confident in speaking or conversing with others, because that is when our English skills are tested.

2. For Teachers

CEM is a worldwide website. In the future, it will develop broader materials and might not be suitable for the school. The teachers should encourage the school to make a more interactive website specifically made for the school, or simply be an interactive teacher oneself.

4. For Future Researchers

This research required tons of investment a.k.a money to sustain, so it would help to have savings in the long run. It is suggested that the students' needs comes first. Future researchers have to develop something that could change the fundamental and core of the students, like developing something to increase students' level of confidence.
