

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusion

1. The function of vocabulary for student at As Syifa junior high school is helping student in understanding and using English. Thus, the specific functions of vocabulary are supporting the student in understanding reading text, comprehending the teacher's instruction, and communicating in spoken and written language.
2. The obstacle found this the research are relate to student's lack of understanding. The other factors beside the lack of student's attention and confidence are about their habit in speaking English and lack of support from their circumstances.
3. Most of them do not use English in their daily activities so this is the main issue behind the lack of initiative in learning English. In this case, the role of the writer is very important because he is able to provide understanding and encouragement to them in learning English. Several solution that can be implemented are by providing interesting discussion, getting student attention, applying certain approach, giving a 10-minutes break time, allowing pre-reading, encouraging good behavior, previewing previous discussion, and facilitating homework discussion.

B. Suggestion

1. To English teacher, the writer found several problems from students who said that the book material was too monotonous so that the teacher is expected to attract them with the idea of finding new vocabulary to increase their enthusiasm for learning English.
2. For the school, it is necessary to improve education so that it can make students more active in learning. The current curriculum is too old-fashioned for today's students. The new curriculum of the English Language Education Center will help them achieve their own mission and vision.
3. For the next research, this paper is expected to give more sample and accurate data resulting for better research for the next research.
