

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

After analyzing, the writer can conclude that the data from all the results of these questions, it can be concluded that:

1. This background also explains how the agency is strong in the rights of human clones. This institution is strong based on the two impacts that strengthen this institution such as, doctors who play a role in donor surgery matters, this is very profitable for doctors in selling organs to normal people and the second impact has an impact on normal people this gives benefits when normal people in cities other than Hailsham want order the organs needed. Therefore, this institution becomes strong and continues to run properly without any rebellion among other people.
2. For the most part, the author also mentions the things experienced by people who make this society a dystopian society. The things that are experienced by Hailsham students are demands made by the guardians and must be done by students such as being creative, maintaining health, acting and keeping the views of outsiders Hailsham. The things that have been experienced have greatly strengthened the students at Hailsham as it is proven to be a dystopian society.

3. Not only what has been experienced, the students at Hailsham also indirectly rebel against Hailsham and also seek the truth of what happened in Hailsham. Unlike other dystopian societies, Never Let Me Go truly delivers eternal destruction with an inhuman ending.

B. Suggestion

1. The writer of this novel hopes that students, especially English Literature student researchers who want to research mostly about dystopian society, can know and understand about dystopian and utopian fiction. In fact, it is hoped that this thesis can be used as additional material for other researchers who are interested in genres such as dystopia, especially dystopian society. The direction of this genre at least provides a lot of relationships, it can be with characters that are deliberately built with society, politics and others.
2. The writer also advises all readers to appreciate the freedom they still have. When a person loses his freedom, then he has become a machine that depends on his superiors. Especially in an increasingly sophisticated era, readers must ensure that historical novels that experience the process of life are very meaningful to see how reality develops in our lives. The writer attaches importance to the state of reality to be explored as a reader in debating and seeing how sophisticated the next life is about criticizing the way of thinking of each reader.
