CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

1. The answer for question one to the analyzed about characterization of the main character, namely Jack. The researcher found the data analysis base on characterization elements as follows: Characterization through choice of name, appearance, dialog, external action, internal action, reaction of other character, contrast dramatic foils. From the analysis about Jack as main character describe about habits, attitude, lifestyle, appearance, problems, physical, and outlook.

2. The answer to question number two looks for the causes why Jack's split personality can appear. The initial reason for this was due to conflict. Conflict is divided into two internal and external conflicts. The second causes is the trauma caused by the effects of the conflict on Jack's personality which causes various psychological effects on Jack.

3. The writer analyzes the effect of multiple personality disorder. The first effect is post-traumatic stress disorder which other effects such as amnesia. When another personality in Jack appears, the other three personalities take over can be causing amnesia in Jack, second hallucination cases are divided into two auditory hallucinations and visual hallucinations that cause personality to emerge and even worse, causes another personality in Jack, the third personality grow up inside the Jack ii is three younger sibling.

B. Suggestion

The expected benefits of the results of this research are:

1. For the Readers

The results of this study are expected to add insight and knowledge about the elements in psychology of works. Ways of studying literature psychology are central in psychoanalysis. Learners sometimes feel confused because psychology and literature studies may have so many types to analyze. The purpose of this thesis is to explain to them that literature is a fun subject to learn. Thus, it will help the learner to find something common in literature such as psychology analysis and literature learning.

2. For the Campus

The author hopes that by studying literary works, especially the elements of literary and psychology works, it can help students to understand the meaning or intentions that may arise in the learning process on campus. To support English literature and psychology for research, the campus must provide various literary and psychology books, especially psychology and stories in this library. The literature books provided will help students to learn and find a lot of information related to literary subjects

3. For next Researcher

      This paper has its focus on the analysis of multiple personality disorder. The writer realized that this paper is still far away from being perfect so that the thesis is able to be a reference for the next researchers. The writer suggests the next researchers to do further analysis in literature approach. Analysis of multiple personality disorder and this is something interesting. This research could be one of the references in studying about plot in this movie.