

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Motivation is important to all the people caused the factor of motivation it's make someone to be braved and more confident to get success. Motivation in study also important to get the students' motivation in achieving the perfect score from their effort and hard work. The students who have low motivation in their effort will not get perfect score. Mostly the problem occurs with them because they have natural reluctant found at some students who learn English. Besides, they are worry to get a bad English score and losing face in front of their classmates.

Based on the researcher, the correlation between students' motivation given by teacher and English achievement of final test in eight grade at John Paul's School there were some conclusions found by the writer:

1. There is significant correlation between student's motivation (variable X) and English achievement (variable Y).
2. The result of calculation using SPSS 21 Program found the calculated value of r_{observed} was higher than the r_{table} 5% significant level which is $0.898 \geq 0.374$.
3. The calculation coefficient of determination showed result as 87.98%. It pointed out that tense mastery gives high contributions to speaking ability. The rest of 19.36% is influenced by others variables and factor that have not been researched by the writer.

B. Suggestion

After researching the correlation between students motivation and English achievement, students can improve and encourage themselves to get best score and motivation are really important to fight someone to increase their knowledge, background of thinking and others. Then, the writer gives the suggestions as follows:

1. For the teachers
 - a. Teachers provide the motivation to students or discuss each other that can makes students easy in taking English lessons in class well.
 - b. Teacher must be patient in guiding their students giving the English lesson in class. With this effort from the teacher, the students can increase their good behavior.
 - c. Teacher must have comprehensive knowledge to know students who need particular attention.
 - d. In certain situation of teaching, the teacher may give a reward to students who have a higher score in English. The reward can be as a small gift that students feel appreciated. With this action, it can motivate other students.
2. For the students
 - a. Students must increase their motivation of themselves.

- b. Students must study hard to improve their knowledge, especially in English.
 - c. Students must be active in class interaction and asking some questions whether they have something problem in the class both a bad and a good thing.
3. For Further Researcher

This research can be used by the next researcher as a reference for further research to be conducted. Motivation is the basic principle that people have. This not only make people good in behavior but also it can increase the students more success in their activities.