Those reference meaning are Definite Reference with Definite Determiner, Definite Reference with Proper Names, Definite Reference with Location Adverbs, Definite Reference with Temporal Adverbs, Indefinite Reference with Indefinite Determiner, Indefinite Reference with Pronoun Indefinite, and Generic Reference.

1. For the researcher

Even though the researcher has finished this research as the requirements for finishing the study in JIA School of Foreign Language, the researcher acknowledged that this thesis is far from perfect and the researcher hopes in the future, the researcher can create a better research.

2. For the readers

The researcher hopes that the readers can understand what the researcher have been intended in writing this thesis, the readers can take the good and throw away the bad. The researcher also hopes that this research can be useful in any way for all the readers.

3. For the Lecturers

Hopefully, the lecturer would explain more about reference meaning to the students in class. That the lecturer would give explanation about reference meaning just like another English subject.

4. For English Students

The researcher hopes that there will be more students, especially English students of JIA School of Foreign Language that will have interest in reference meaning.
