

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based on the description of the situation in several actions, utterances, and behaviors through previously conducted data analysis, several conclusions can be drawn, as follow:

1. There is representation of caste discrimination through the character of Balram in The White Tiger movie which is based on Marxism theory. Through the terms of the idea of classes, is no longer based on the religious basis but now it divides the upper class with power who obtains abundant wealth and the lower case neither has power nor wealth with the idea "Men with big bellies and men with small bellies". In the movie, class struggle is proven by Balram and his family did not get the adequate health services by the local government. And class consciousness determines this caste system is one of the bases for bourgeoisie to legitimize domination in controlling the economic structure of society in late capitalism such as the ruling class who is controlled possession of property.
2. At last, Balram's character is shown as that of a progressive person who successfully resist the caste system by obtaining the property ownership through the struggles he waged while he was a driver so that no one could discriminate against him based on caste. Therefore, with the ownership of property, he may control his economic structure for the success of his life.

B. Suggestion

Through the findings of this study, the researcher has made the following suggestions to various parties:

1. For English Literature Learners

In literature fields, many theoretical frameworks cover a very broad perspective, one of which is Marxist theory, that declares a very diverse conceptual framework. This study has analyzed several conceptions of classes. The researcher hopes this study can be recommended for the learners while conducting their research as a supporting source in understanding and developing its analysis by using the same conceptual theory.

2. For Society at Large

The researcher recommends for the next researcher to analyze it more deeply, using a different theory and point of view. It does not simply need to focus on the main characters as the main object but other characters or social condition can be analyzed as well.
